

MIGRATION STUDIES THROUGH MULTIDISCIPLINARY APPROACH

Biljana RISTOVSKA-JOSIFOVSKA, dr., Prof.
Institute of National History, N. Macedonia

The historians need to experience the atmosphere and circumstances in the country which is the subject of interest. The point of view becomes different when the historian is in the role of participant in field explorations of the memories of the past. In such context, we should also note the verbal narrative of historical events, especially if analysed through the narration by different generations, which will be the focus of this paper.

Keywords: migration, historian, field exploration, narration.